CONDITIONS OF SALE

ALL BIDS TO BE PER LOT AS NUMBERED IN THE CATALOGUE.

The highest bidder to be the buyer. In all cases of disputed bids the decision of the Auctioneer shall be final.

Buyers to give their names and addresses and to make such cash payments on account as may be required, in default of which the lots purchased shall be resold immediately.

Purchases to be removed at the buyer's expense and risk within twenty-four hours from the conclusion of the sale, and the remainder of the purchase money to be paid on or before delivery, in default of which The Anderson Galleries, Incorporated, will not be responsible for any loss or damage whatever, but the lot or lots will be left at the sole risk of the purchaser, and subject to storage charges.

All lots will be placed on public exhibition before the date of sale, for examination by intending purchasers, and The Anderson Galleries, Incorporated, will not be responsible for the correctness of the description, authenticity, genuineness, or for any defect or fault in or concerning any lot, and makes no warranty whatever, but will sell each lot exactly as it is, WITHOUT RECOURSE.

If accounts are not paid and purchases removed within twenty-four hours of the conclusion of the sale, or, in the case of absent buyers, when bills are rendered, any sum deposited as part payment shall be forfeited, and The Anderson Galleries, Incorporated, reserves the right to resell the lot or lots by either private or public sale, without further notice, and if any deficiency arises from such resale it shall be made good by the defaulter, together with all expenses incurred. This condition shall be without prejudice to the right of this Company to enforce the sale contract and collect the amount due without such resale, at its own option.

The Anderson Galleries, Incorporated, will afford every facility for the employment of carriers and packers by the purchasers, but will not be responsible for any damage arising from the acts of such carriers and packers.

The Anderson Galleries makes no charge for executing orders for its customers and uses all bids competitively, buying at the lowest price permitted by other bids.

CATALOGUES ON REQUEST

SALES CONDUCTED BY MR. F. A. CHAPMAN, MR. A. N. BADE AND MR. E. H. L. THOMPSON

VARIED, and indeed multiform, as it is, the remarkable collection of art objects of the late Nathan Samuel Kaplan derives its capital interest from the fact that it gives an unusual illustration of art and art-appreciation in Russia during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Mr. Kaplan was not only a man of very great wealth, which enabled him to gather his beautiful collections: he was also a man of great imagination and energy, and he succeeded in saving a considerable part of these collections by transport over the Siberian railroad and across the American continent at the outbreak of the Bolshevik revolution. His houses—or palaces—in Petrograd and the Crimea had been filled with treasures. Many of the rarest are here now: for in addition to those which he rescued in the first instance, he managed to recover by degrees, and for a sufficient payment to the Soviet authorities, other valuable groups—jewelry, tapestries, brocades, porcelains, paintings.

When, at the command of the art-loving as well as otherwise amative French Regent, the famous le Blond took his corps of brilliant artists and craftsmen to St. Petersburg in 1716—Nicolas Pineau the sculptor, Nicolas Girard designer, and Jean Lombard* jeweller among them—he took with him a French spirit and French skill: but in what he designed in the East, and in what he had made from those designs in the West for the pleasure of the East, he incorporated, subtly but unmistakably, the spirit of Russia. Thoroughly Western as his creations were in artistic expression, a mysterious atmosphere of the Orient pervades them. He transported Paris to the Neva, but it was a Paris with the soul of the Kremlin and not of the Luxembourg; and in the new city of the new Tsars, Old Russia and Old France met together, and harmonized.

Mr. Kaplan's collecting was not haphazard and intermittent: it was purposeful and continuous. He made the acquaintance of the great Russian collectors, members of the higher aristocracy, whose ancestors had collected Western objects of art and patronized artists and artisans ever since the days of Peter the Great. Through his expert knowledge of jewels and the craftsmanship of silver and gold, he accumulated treasures which were the finest of their kind. And in many of them, as has been already indicated, there is the indefinable but unmistakable spirit of the East, lingering still in the forms designed and moulded by the most skilful artists and craftsmen of the West.

The outstanding features of these collections are undoubtedly the translucent enamelled and jewelled boxes mounted in gold, the like of which cannot be found in France or any other part of the world; the rock crystals of the Renaissance; and the extensive collection of church and corporation silver of Scandinavian, German, French, Spanish and Italian workmanship.

* An example by Jean Lombard—the Insignia of the Order of Peter the Great—is in the present collection.

The Chinese porcelains, jades, crystals, and the European porcelains, also include an amazing number of specimens which have their equals only in the great public collections. A special word may be given to the Battersea enamels made for the Russian market. The furniture is as distinctive as the objets de vertu, and shows the same appreciation of the uncommon in design and workmanship. French cabinet-making being as favored as the French language in Russia, the majority of the pieces are creations by the great ébénistes of Paris. A setting of barbaric splendor is added by the Russian brocades and velvets.

Among the notable collections which have contributed to the Kaplan art treasures are those of the late Baron Fredericks, Chamberlain to Tsar Nicholas III (snuff boxes, jewelry and decorations), and of the Princess Lobanoff Rostowsky (crystals); the Edouard Chappey Collection (Chinese porcelains); and the Constantin Makowsky Collection (ivories and silver).

Mr. Kaplan was able to satisfy his tastes as a collector because he was in the first instance an industrial genius of exceptional attainments. The inventor of the artificial pearl, and later the leading spirit of the moving-picture world of Russia and then of France, he amassed an enormous fortune, and spent it on a lavish scale. This catalogue embraces his complete collections, so far as the hazards of the Russian revolution permitted them to remain complete, from his houses in Petrograd and the Crimea, and his pied-à-terre in Paris.

249 TWO PLATES WITH MEDALLION BORDERS CHIEN LUNG

"An attempt by some European to design a Chinese pattern. The rim is covered with a blue-green enamel, much the same as we find on the eggshell plates; the diaper work consisting of cross lines in black. The diamond shaped spaces between being ornamented with an L-shaped design. This border is broken by twelve white reserves, marked off by black margins, and decorated with flowers, fruit, and butterflies, all in European drawing. In addition to these there are twelve shells near the edge, and twelve leaf or feather sprays towards the centre, traced in red upon the white. In the centre the figures are European in design, as also the arbor, which is all in green, except the six roses to the reader's right. Two of the children are clothed entirely in gilt. In front there is a pond with three ducks, one of which is holding its head under water. At back there is a kind of embattled scroll in a brown-red. These plates are sought after by collectors, and two are to be found in the Salting collection at South Kensington, and a blue and white one in the Grandidier collection. There is a small jug in the Franks collection decorated with this pattern, but in other colors."

TWO EIGHTEENTH CENTURY MEISSEN PORCELAIN AIGUIERES
[NUMBER 386]

386 TWO PORCELAIN AIGUIERES

MEISSEN, MID-18TH CENTURY

Important examples. Shaped as oinochoae of Greek design; on sturdy plinths of which one simulates waves with two dolphins in alto relievo and gayly polychromed spouting water; the other with multi-colored feathers diagonally placed and a winged amour in high relief apparently flying through the air with his flowered drapery moved by the wind, his right hand holding the emblematic dove. The bulbous bodies varying in their ornamentation; one representing the sea, faced by four Neptune's sea horses and a mermaid riding on the waves, the ground with low relief representation of sailing ships. Above, the cresting of a shell with Neptune in flowing robes and spirited motion, directing the movement of his chariot. The body of the other representing air with the body covered by rose colored clouds in high relief with a peacock, the crowned figure of Minerva in flowered robes and a winged seraph blowing clouds from his trumpet. The necks with shell and feathers in low relief crested by putti figures in spirited motion. Minor defects. (2)

597 IMPORTANT GOLD WATCH BY JEAN LOUIS MARE

GENEVA, CIRCA 1790

Large case, the exterior with engraved borders and the Masonic emblem. The interior cover with engraved border and the inscription "Jean Louis Mare". The movement is particularly handsome with superb watchback and engraved border. Broad member in centre, slightly indented. Enamel face with Arabic numerals.

Diameter,  $2\frac{1}{4}$  inches

598 GOLD BULLS-EYE WATCH BY MATARD, DIJON

FRENCH, CIRCA 1790

The back with red and yellow gold with a reserve of emblems and festoons in medallion. Original hands.

Diameter,  $1\frac{3}{4}$  inches

- 599 GOLD AND ENAMEL WATCH BY ROMILLY PARIS, CIRCA 1780
Lady's watch, the case with circular enamelled medallion of maiden in rose and white with emblems of love. Gros-bleu border. The body finely engraved with husk sprays. The face of porcelain with black numerals, original hands, surrounded by narrow band of marquasite. Chain and watch key of excellent workmanship. Slight defects.

Diameter, 1 $\frac{1}{4}$  inches

- 600 LADY'S GOLD AND ENAMEL WATCH GENEVA, CIRCA 1810
With simple plain gold mount, the back a miniature, a pastorage of two youthful maidens, one holding a harp; fine gros-bleu border enriched with gold. Porcelain face. Delicate ring.

Diameter, 1 $\frac{1}{4}$  inches

- 601 RED AND WHITE GOLD LADY'S WATCH BY JEAN BAPTISTE BAILLON PARIS, CIRCA 1770
The back with musical emblems and trees in two-tone gold. Borders of interlaced meanders and husk finely engraved. Original gold hands on enamelled face with black numerals. Diameter, 1 $\frac{3}{4}$  inches
Jean Baptiste Baillon was "horloger" to Queen Marie Leczinska and later to Marie Antoinette.

- 602 ORMOLU JEWELLED COACH CLOCK BY GEORGE MARGETTS LONDON, CIRCA 1785

A remarkable clock by a great master. The case of exceedingly fine workmanship with two broad bands of pierced arabesques and fan motifs and narrow fillets of rubies and fine pearls. The back with a circle of translucent blue enamel imaginatively figured. The porcelain dial in four circles, one for hours, song and dance, chime and watchback of very elaborate pattern. The back of the movement painted with a landscape japanned. Diameter, 3 $\frac{3}{4}$  inches

George Margetts by his originality of conception embodied in exact and well finished mechanism, must be ranked with the masters. He was admitted as a member of the Clockmakers' Company in 1779 and carried on business at 21, King Street, Cheapside. Watches by him with complicated dial work are in the British and Guildhall Museums. As the cost of these watches must have been very great, one is inclined to think they were probably ordered for presentation by some wealthy corporation. See Britten, "Old Clocks and Watches and Their Makers", 2nd Edition, Page 358.

603 ORMOLU MOUNTED BISCUIT DE SEVRES MANTEL CLOCK OF THE DIRECTOIRE PERIOD

SCHOOL OF AVIGNON

14TH CENTURY

781 IMPORTANT CENTRE OF A TRIPTYCH

PIETRO LONGHI

ITALIAN, 1702-1762

782 MARKET IN TURIN IN THE YEAR 1756

An important canvas recalling the populous scenes of Bassano. The foreground occupied by stalls of fish, fruit, egg vendors, florists, etc., with their owners seated nearby and a multitude of citadini, buyers and onlookers. Some in brilliant scarlet and blue attire. In the centre, a cart filled with crockery has been overturned and the contents spilled over a prostrate horse. Beyond, a motley of people selling their wares, some gesticulating, and others enjoying the picturesque spectacle. In the back, the Town Hall with crowds of citizens surging from its arches and its columnar portico. And on the balcony above, a band of red cloaked soldier-musicians entertaining the city fathers and their guests, seated under a blue canopy. To the right and left, buildings with vivacious people of all classes appearing in their windows and on their balconies. The infinite wealth of imaginative detail is particularly entertaining. The architectural background is doubtlessly by another hand. The date, 1756, appears on the tablet beneath the stemma.

Magnificent baroque carved-wood frame with bold concave shell and leaf ornamentation. Gilded with touches of dark green.

From the Sedelmeyer Collection.

JUAN DE CARRENO DE MIRANDA

SPANISH, 1614-1685

785 PORTRAIT OF CHARLES II OF SPAIN

The young king is seated on a galloping brown horse with a flowing mane. His long golden hair falls in waves about his delicate features which bear a marked resemblance to those of his father Philip IV. He is dressed in a black hat, crowned with pink and white feathers, and a rich dark costume of velvet, relieved by white collar and sleeves, and enriched with gold embroidery and chased gold buttons. He wears white gauntlets, one hand is restraining the rearing steed, and the other holding a roll. A sword with carved gold hilt hangs at his side. At the bottom of the picture is a bird's-eye view of six Spanish towns, all labelled. The rocky landscape projects into blue waters which are named "Mar Oceano" and bear a red and gold mariner's compass. Though the figure of the horse and landscape show considerable eighteenth century repainting on the original pigments, the artistic and historical importance of this canvas is undiminished. Carreno was inspired to adopt the pose of Velasquez's "Don Baltasar Carlos" for this portrait. Size, 80 x 52 inches

Carreno was an eminent Spanish painter, who was born at Aviles, in the Asturias, and studied at Madrid under Pedro de Las Cuevas and Bartolomé Roman. He studied the works of Velasquez and Van Dyck. He was employed by Philip IV for some important palace frescoes; and besides commissions from the King, he painted numerous pictures for churches. His tender and suave coloring is surpassed in his country only by Murillo. He was retained as court painter to Charles II.

789 GOLD MOUNTED VERNIS MARTIN SNUFF BOX

FRENCH, CIRCA 1750

This remarkable box was presented by Louis XV to the Empress Marie Thérèse. It is furnished with two large and four narrow plaques of Vernis Martin enamel of exquisite workmanship; the cover with the arrival of the Imperial cortege at the palace; the bottom the palace gardens with ladies of rank in sedan chairs pulled by grooms in crimson livery. The sides with minutely painted groups of courtiers and courtesans on a ribbed green gold ground, doubtlessly one of the finest examples of Vernis Martin. The mounts of elaborate chasing with bands of arabesques heightened with black enamel. Gold lined.

Size, 3½ x 2½ inches

From the Collection of the late Baron Fredericks.

ARAGONESE SCHOOL

15TH CENTURY

790 TRIPTYCH WITH SCENES FROM THE LIFE OF ST. FRANCIS

Centre with the death of the saint in episcopal robes on a platform covered with floriated cloth-of-gold. Monks in black cossacks mourning, while others kneeling near the crosier are singing hymns with hymn books in their hands. Above, on gilded sgraffito ground, the resurrected soul being lifted to heaven by winged seraphim, shown with gold halos and scarves. The left wing shows the Saint in brocaded robe offering the sacred Host to God the Father, who appears in a benedictory attitude. The Saint's arms are guided to their holy rite by two flying seraphim, in ample draped robes of blue-green, crimson, and white. Flanking the saint's dais, are two groups. To the right, a prioress and nuns, of which one can be seen with bright scarlet robes. To the left, monks and acolytes with crosier and cross of gold. Background, the interior of a Gothic church. Floor with unusual tessellation. The right wing, the baptism of the youthful saint, performed by a cleric in richly embroidered robes with collar of gold, and a group of patricians in mediaeval costumes. The foreground dominated by an acolyte with cross, and to the left of the officiating priest a woman dressed in crimson pleated robes, holding the hand of a child clad in blue. Background of the apse of a church, with reredos of gold in columnar arch. The characterization of the numerous personages is particularly realistic, and in many instances, without mercy. Arched Gothic frames with pinnacle finials of nineteenth century addition.

821 ONE OF TWO PERSONAGE TAPESTRIES ATELIER

DELAPLANCHE

PARIS, 17TH CENTURY

Representing the story of Coriolan.

Coriolan in golden armor, his plumed helmet crested by a dragon, receives the entreaties of his mother to return to Volsci with his army of Volscians. She is clad in blue-green robes and golden drapery falls over her mournful head. In the right background soldiers in blue armor and beyond Roman architecture. Handsome upper border of acanthus scrolls in crimson and brown with a key panel with warriors on horseback, woven in blue "camaieu". Originally a larger panel, it was cut and made into portieres with vertical borders of old seventeenth century Brussels tapestry galloon, one with a monogram, of later addition. Identical tapestries at the Chateau de Compiègne.

Size, 10 feet 9 inches x 5 feet 1 inch

822 ONE OF TWO PERSONAGE TAPESTRIES ATELIER

DELAPLANCHE

PARIS, 17TH CENTURY

The Deputation of Roman Senators.

The foreground with the figures of eight draped personages appearing full length in flowing robes, on a tessellated floor. To the left two youthful onlookers presumably the children of Coriolan, beneath a balustrade, and formal garden and the soft blue outline of a Roman palace and cluster of houses beyond. Border similar to the preceding.

Size, 10 feet 8 inches x 5 feet 11 inches

823 ENTRE-FENETRE TAPESTRY OF FONTAINEBLEAU WEAVE

FRENCH, LATE 17TH CENTURY

The Legend of Narcissus.

Narcissus admiring his pleasant features in the mirror of a pool. The artist has set this classic composition in a landscape with a stag hunt entertainingly treated inside of a large and beautiful chateau in the background. Handsome continuous border of mask enriched urns, fruit festoons and flower groups, the top and bottom borders with heraldic shields in a brilliant multicolored weave.

Size, 8 feet 3 inches x 3 feet 11 inches

The Court of Apollo.

A group of six personages, noble women and their attendants as musicians. The dominating central figure a handsome young woman with blond curling hair, rose bodice and blue-green cloak, singing from a score of music. Another with blond braids, cream gold-belted gown and crimson cloak accompanying her with her voice. To the left a cellist and apollo with a green wreath in his long curling hair, playing a lyre; he is draped in crimson and gold. In the near background two listeners and wooded landscape and beyond fields in the faraway town. To the right a young maiden dancing with an instrument in her hand. Framed in a carved oak baguette.

Height, 8 feet; width, 6 feet 2 inches
